Kore Potash Plc
("Kore Potash" or "the Company")

Staff changes

Kore Potash (AIM: KP2, ASX: KP2, JSE:KP2), the potash development company with 97%-ownership of the Kola and DX Potash Projects in the Sintoukola Basin, located in the Republic of Congo announces changes to the key management personnel of the Company.

With Kore Potash in the process of finalising the Engineering, Procurement and Construction ("EPC") contract for the Kola potash project ("Kola") the Company has commenced reviewing management requirements for the construction phase of Kola.

Having successfully completed the capital optimisation study and negotiated the key terms for an EPC contract for Kola, the Company's current Chief Operating Officer ("COO"), Gavin Chamberlain, who has served as COO since September 2017, will conclude his employment with Kore Potash at the end of January 2023 to take up a role located closer to his home base. Gavin leaves within the Company highly experienced engineering capability to progress the development of the Company's potash projects.

Mr Brad Sampson the CEO of Kore Potash said "The board of directors ("Board") and management team of Kore Potash commend Gavin for his commitment and valuable contribution to the Company for the last 5 years. We wish Gavin every success in his next role."

Mr Ryan Leland, who has been the Project Director for Kola since 2017, continues in this role and will report directly to the Chief Executive Officer, Mr Brad Sampson, with immediate effect.

Mr Sampson said, "Ryan has more than 5 years' experience working on the design of Kola as the Project Director and has extensive Canadian potash experience. He is ideally positioned to continue to provide the project leadership that is required through completion of the EPC contract negotiations and through the construction of Kola."

The Company intends to commence recruitment for the construction phase of Kola during the first half of 2023.

This announcement has been approved for release by the Board of Kore Potash.
